

ABSTRACT

A parking aid for a motor vehicle that has a vehicle steering system with a manual steering wheel and a steering torque control module applies a steering torque to the steering wheel by way of the torque control module. The additional steering torque is applied via the steering wheel and assists the driver of the vehicle in a parking maneuver.